Clouds Obscure Three-Quarters Of Saanich Sky

Believers Outnumber Skeptics
As Johnston Waits for Rain

Odds that Donald S. Johnston would bring welcome showers to the Saanich peninsula were swinging in the Saskatchewan rainmaker's favor late last night.

Early today skies above the rainless area were three-quarters overcast and it was beginning to look as though the showers were actually on the way.

Johnston said he was "waiting for rain."

A two-day CKDA "Telepinion" poll showed five believed in the mild-mannered rainmaker's chances of opening a rusty valve in the Saanich skies to three who thought he would fail.

At 8 p.m. yesterday Johnston completed his first 24-hour shift since his arrival in this area.

STARTS AT MOONRISE

A few minutes later, at moonrise, he started the pendulum magnet on the rain machine rocking into its second day of duty.

This time he set the machine up in an open field next to the Farmer's Institute Hall, Saanich, four miles from the H. C. Young farm where the lunar-gravitational unit got its first workout.

It was the most exciting event since the Saanich Agricultural Fair of '79 and drew the same sort of semi-cocking, semi-convinced crowd that attended rain machine premiere Monday.

ODDS IMPROVE

Johnston is also getting better odds from the official weather forecaster at the Gonzales Heights Observatory.

Yesterday afternoon weathermen conceded him a 50-50 chance of being caught in a rainstorm, and late in the day the official forecast predicted possible showers Thursday.

Johnston had earlier announced he would stay here until that day.

To amateur observers the situation looked even more hopeful.

As the twilight closed in on

Johnston and his nodding rain machine the crowd was watching a fat moon bury itself in a black cloud looming up over the Olympic Mountains 40 miles across the Strait of Juan De Fuca.

Later the clouds appeared to be creeping over the strait.

Two hours before, as Johnston trudged out to the field with the two sections of his rain machine only white fleecy clouds had been visible to the north.

Weathermen identified them as high flying "strato-cumulus" drifting along at about 15,000 feet. The clouds over the strait two hours later were tabbed as "two beds of alto-cumulus."

LOOK GOOD

They looked a lot more like the rain clouds hard-hit Saanich farmers are panting after.

The rainmaker—a sweet little guy who just wants to help people—was planning to keep his machine going until moonset at about 4 a.m.

That's the program he followed the night before.

During the day he operates the machine at intervals.

Early Tuesday, with the rain magnets set up outside his quarters, he kept himself awake by reading George Bernard Shaw.

He had to set the machine oscillating again every hour.

STRONG WINDS

Gusts of wind at window-slaming velocity whipped over the area early in the morning while the machine was still running.

The Shavian selection Johnston liked best was "I Am an Educated Person," in which Shaw boasted he had dismissed 11,950

Weather Man Meets "The Thing"

"This I've got to see," said Dominion meteorologist W. H. Mackie yesterday, making his first acquaintance with "Universcope" of rainmaker Donald S.

Johnston. The Saskatchewan rainmaker lugged his 50-pound machine up to the Gonzales weather station to talk shop with the rather doubtful weather man.

Forecast Altered, Hope of Rain Seen

Rainmaker Donald Johnston may or may not bring moisture to the parched fields of Saanich, but already his mystic machine appears to have thrown run-of-the-mill weathermen and their forecasts into a tizzy.

Early yesterday the weather bureau was adamant in its belief that there would be no rain. There would be a few puffy clouds, said the bureau, but none of the rain-giving type.

Mr. Johnston, however, had been secretly at work since early morning and by mid-afternoon the official weathermen were singing the first bars of a new tune.

In a "revised-forecast" they said there was a 50-50 chance of rain, probably Thursday or Friday. A large mass of moist air was moving toward the north coast, they said, and was already bringing showers to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Johnston, who said in the beginning he would need at least 36 hours to produce rain, was in agreement. "I'm not used to the coastal climate and conditions," he said, "and it's taking longer than I expected to get the clouds coming."

Late last night, however, he was encouraged to see heavy clouds rolling up over the peninsula.

Wreckage Everywhere

Truman Surveys Scene Of Costly U.S. Floods

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 17 (AP)—President Truman flew home today to make a personal survey of the damage wrought by the United States' costliest flood as the affected cities dug into the huge cleanup job.

Little of the actual flood remains for the presidential party's inspection from Kansas City westward into Kansas. But east of Kansas City volunteers are working to contain the mighty Missouri which is swelling to record crests.

After an 800-mile tour, Truman said the disaster is "one of the worst the country has ever suffered from water." At Kansas City he commented: "The flood is terrible—awful. It's the worst thing I have ever seen."

HUGE LOSS

In Kansas City and to the west and southwest, there is a vast scene of wreckage—tangled homes, box cars, animals, factories and other debris—wreckage that Major-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of the army engineers, has said would total well over $750,000,000. This is nearly twice the dollar loss of the 1937 Ohio-Mississippi flood, previously the most costly.

Pick has estimated that the damage in Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., alone is more than $300,000,000.

These estimates are for physical property only. They do not include intangibles, loss in wages, income for factories and railroads and the like.

In addition, 22 lives have been lost in the two states.

Laborer Charged In Death

VANCOUVER, July 17 (CP)—

John Joseph Dillane, a dock worker, was charged with manslaughter today in the death of Stanley Deren, 52, after he walked into the police station with a friend and said he was the man wanted in the case.

Deren died Sunday, a few hours after he was struck in the face at a street intersection along the skid row. It was the third violent death in the area in the last five weeks. His head hit the pavement when he fell and his assailant disappeared.

The blaze was discovered at 1:30 a.m. and 30 minutes later the greater part of the auditorium and stage had been burned.

Actors and actresses of the Abbey company helped save some valuable paintings and other souvenirs of the theatre's role in the history of Irish and world drama.

The Abbey became famous early in this century when it presented the works of a new school of Irish playwrights. Its actors included many who later became stars abroad.

This week's production at the theatre was Sean O'Casey's "The Plough and the Stars," a drama of the Irish revolution in which Barry Fitzgerald, now a Hollywood star, first won acclaim in the original production.

The Abbey was opened in 1904 for the use of the Irish National Theatre Society. Plays by W. B. Yeats, Lady Gregory, J. M. Synge, Sean O'Casey and George Bernard Shaw were presented on its stage.

Tank-Led Patrols Rap Red Build-Up Near Neutral Zone

Both Sides Hold Positions
After Day of Skirmishing

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 18 (Wednesday) (AP).—Allied tank-led patrols punched hard Tuesday at a Red buildup near the site of the Kaesong cease-fire talks.

Patrols crossed the Imjin River and lashed at Chinese units at half-a-dozen spots northeast of Kaesong and north of Korangpo.

The Red build-up was outside the five-mile neutral zone around Kaesong.

Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British Commonwealth forces in Korea, witnessed some of the action.

Skirmishes with Reds also broke out in Central Korea near Kumhwa.

In East-Central Korea, two Communist companies launched three small-scale attacks north of Yanggu. One assault temporarily cracked the Allied line.

The companies later were beaten off with small arms and automatic weapons fire.

At day's end, each side held to its old positions all across Korea.

Mass flights of Allied fighter-bombers blasted Communist supply centres and arteries Tuesday in North Korea. Ground action had virtually stopped.

Two flights of nearly 50 Thunderjets escorted B-29 Superfortresses on a raid on Kaesong, 33 miles northwest of Kaesong.

It was plain that the Allies were out to smash all efforts to supply Red forces building up for another offensive that might result from a failure of armistice talks.

United Nations warships, maintaining the 152nd day of naval bombardment at the east coast North Korean port of Wonsan Tuesday, encountered heavy enemy fire from shore positions which lasted more than three hours, a naval headquarters communique said.

Fire Damages Saanich Home

Home of E. B. Leslie, retired pensioner on East Saanich Road, was badly damaged by fire of unknown origin early today.

Mr. Leslie has been a patient in Veterans' Hospital for a week, and no one was occupying the house at the time.

Alarm was turned in at 12:15 a.m. by Gordon Mitchell, a passerby. The dwelling is the last building in Saanich municipality near the border of Central Saanich, and firemen from both districts answered the alarm.

Truce Talks at Kaesong Study New Red Proposal

U.N. TRUCE CAMP NEAR KAESONG, July 18 (Wednesday) (INS).—Korea truce talks moved through the sixth round at Kaesong today with a new Communist proposal under discussion by the Allied and Red negotiators.

Today's session adjourned for the day at 3:25 p.m. (10:25 p.m. Tuesday, P.D.T.) and the Allied delegates helicoptered back to the Allied truce camp. They had gone by jeep to Kaesong this morning because of bad weather. A new Communist proposal, injected into Tuesday's fifth full-dress session on the peace agenda, was discussed during a 55-minute morning meeting.

The precise details of the Red proposal were not disclosed by Allied spokesmen but they said it had been anticipated.

Although the exact nature of the Red move was not disclosed, it was recalled that the Communists earlier tried to project the issue of withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea as a condition to any cease-fire agreement.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations supreme commander, who has spent the past several days at the U.N. truce camp at Munsan, quietly returned to his supreme headquarters at Tokyo tonight.

Ridgway made no immediate comment on his return to Tokyo. He flew to Korea last week and remained at the truce camp, where he said he intended to stay until the cease-fire talks were on the tracks.

The Allied and Communist delegates sat down across Kaesong's green-baize conference table in an atmosphere of complete neutrality.

This atmosphere was pointed up by an army announcement that Tuesday was the first deathless day for American troops in Korea since July 9, 1950.

Noted Abbey Theatre Half-Razed by Fire

DUBLIN, July 18 (Wednesday) (AP).—A fire that broke out suddenly in Dublin's famed Abbey Theatre early this morning destroyed the main part of the building before it was brought under control.

The blaze was discovered at 1:30 a.m. and 30 minutes later the greater part of the auditorium and stage had been burned.

Actors and actresses of the Abbey company helped save some valuable paintings and other souvenirs of the theatre's role in the history of Irish and world drama.

Little Headway in Iran Reported by Harriman

TEHRAN, July 17 (CP)—President Truman's trouble-shooter admitted today he had made little headway in smoothing Iran's oil crisis. At the same time, bloody riots protesting American intercession pointed up trouble within Iran's own government.

W. Averell Harriman, sent by Truman to talk with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, said Mossadegh is sticking to his plan to nationalize the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to the hilt.

He told a press conference he is not seeking to act as a mediator and has no new proposals to advance, but is merely trying to "combine reason with enthusiasm" and create an easier atmosphere.

The dispute has blocked shipments of fuel from the big Abadan refinery for three weeks, resulted in the evacuation of more than half of the vitally-needed British technicians from the oil fields, and led to riots in which at least four persons were killed and almost 300 injured.

Meanwhile, Mossadegh was confronted in Parliament today by charges that Sunday's anti-Harriman riots were plotted by Interior Minister Gen. Fezlulak Zahedi.

The session of the House broke up in confusion and shouting when Deputy Lehar Paristeh accused Zahedi of inciting the riot in order to take over the premier ship himself.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

One man was murdered on Vancouver's Skid Row because he didn't have any cigarettes.

Another was hurried to the hearse for the sake of three or four bucks in his wallet.

A third had his mortal coil violently snuffed off because he spoke Polish on the street.

Very soon snipers will be stationed on Lions' Gate Bridge to pick off approaching travelers because they have freckled faces. Hatchmen at the gang plank will chop down all middle-aged schoolmarmers who speak with a lisp.

Machine-guns on the pier will snuff out the lives of all Englishmen with long noses, and all Arabs with big ears. Heavy artillery on Granville Street will blast all American cars which have dusty license plates.

But matters should not be allowed to go that far. A halt should be called now.

Before any more lives are lost, honest men and women should evacuate Vancouver and leave it in possession of the thugs and ruffians who seem to form such a large part of its population.

Civil defense authorities are now wrestling with the problem of removing everybody from Vancouver in the event of an air raid. Removing the honest people should be a much easier job. It could be done in no time at all. The provincial government should act at once.

When that job is finished, Vancouver's status as a kind of punishment camp for undesirables can be confirmed. The place will be known as Little Hades.

A few poor devils will be retained on the staff to keep the smoke and cinders pouring from the furnaces and rake over the mud of False Creek to preserve the perfume which has made Vancouver famous.

A high steel fence will be built around the town. Guards will patrol it to prevent escapes and to make sure that visitors do not poke indigestible food through the bars to inmates.

As a tourist attraction, Vancouver may outshine Alcatraz, or even Butchart's Gardens.

Facts nobody wants to know... A man in a barrel will race another man wearing a set of inner tubes over Niagara Falls August 5... White nylon coal sacks and white nylon overalls for coal deliverymen are a new thing in Britain. They shed the dust and stay white for quite a while, and can be hosed down. They are also more supple than the ordinary sack, which makes the coalman's job easier.

Just for laughs, I have bought myself a pipe 14 inches long. It makes a fine, cool, smoke, but must be classified as a fire-side pipe rather than an outdoor pipe. It's a menace to the noses of passers-by in heavy-traffic. Anyone smoking a pipe this length should give a hand signal when he makes a turn.

Labor Faces Reddened Over Annuity

LONDON, July 17 (C.P.). Princess Margaret will get her annual allowance starting next month, but a lot of red-faced Labor ministers wish the question had never come up.

Yesterday the House of Commons gave unopposed second reading to a bill enabling £6,000 to be paid annually to Princess Margaret after she comes of age August 21. Prime Minister Clement Attlee explained there had been a small technical omission—a 1937 act provided for payment but did not authorize it in statutory form.

Then Emrys Hughes, a pacifist Labor member whose views sometimes outrage his own colleagues, embarked on a 14-year flashback. He reminded the house that in 1937 Labor had opposed the payment. He recalled a Labor amendment calling for greater simplicity in the daily life of the Court.

Who had voted against the £6,000 annuity? Well, said Hughes, among them were the present Prime Minister, Home Secretary Chuter Ede and the chief Labor whip, William Whiteley.

Mr. Attlee, Mr. Ede and Mr. Whiteley were all present in the house yesterday. None replied—not even when Conservative leader Winston Churchill, grinning happily, called out: "It is never too late to mend."

Bus Passengers Walk the Plank

Passengers on a special Calgary transit system bus Saturday night literally had to abandon ship when the vehicle was stranded in a flooded subway. Sgt. Bob Moffat of the city traffic squad is shown above as he led one of the passengers to safety over a make-shift bridge. About 40 persons were forced to walk the plank to safety. The bus was trapped during the height of Saturday's downpour. (C.P. photo.)

North Koreans, Chinese Seem Eager For Success of Cease-Fire Talks

KAESONG, July 17 (UPI). — North Korean and Chinese Red soldiers and correspondents in Kaesong today appeared eager for peace.

And the North Koreans, like the South Koreans, called for elimination of the 38th Parallel as a boundary.

They struggled when asked who should run the country or where the capital should be, but that was probably more out of caution or politeness than lack of conviction.

A North Korean woman said: "Naturally we all hope that the peace meeting is successful and the war ends. There should be only one country."

CHINESE WILL LEAVE

She said "of course" Chinese soldiers will pull out of Korea when the war ends and that she expects United Nations forces also to leave.

A North Korean officer said all his soldiers want peace and a unified Korea.

Civilians were unanimous in urging a quick end to the war.

HOPE FOR PEACE

A 25-year-old Chinese Communist correspondent said all Chinese soldiers hope for peace.

But he angrily told an Indian correspondent India is a foe of China because she sent a medical team to join Allied forces. He claimed there are 600 Indians among the United Nations troops.

He gave further evidence of his inaccurate knowledge of Allied forces when he asserted Japanese are among them.

As proof he exhibited a clipping from a Chinese newspaper showing a picture of a captured soldier described as a Japanese.

CENSORSHIP SIMILAR

The reporter described the Communist censorship system as similar to that imposed on United Nations correspondents and as limited to military information.

He said all Communist correspondents sign every article they write and are responsible for its contents.

A first mistake, he said, will get the writer a warning. He added that no Chinese reporter has ever made a second mistake.

Concrete Floor Upended

Sewage Disposal Plant Wrecked by Explosion

SASKATOON, July 17 (CP). — A gas explosion ripped apart Saskatoon's $110,000 sewage-disposal plant today.

No one was hurt. The concrete-and-steel building was deserted when the explosion hit at 7:03 a.m. Half an hour later, A. Howe, father of hockey player Gordie Howe, would have been there checking equipment.

The blast tossed into the air a section of a foot-thick steel-reinforced concrete floor. The slab came to rest standing upright, deeply embedded in the ground.

A huge T-tiger was thrown 30 feet. Machinery was twisted out of shape.

The plant, located at the north end of the city near the South Saskatchewan River, was built three years ago. It handled half the city's sewage. Engineers immediately diverted sewage into the river.

Officials said they believe gasoline got into the sewer pipes to set off the blast. Mr. Howe said he inspected the plant for sewer gas at 5 p.m. yesterday and his instruments registered zero.

A series of smaller blasts followed the main explosion. Windows two miles from the wrecked plant were rattled. Hundreds of curious converged on the scene, where high-tension lines severed by the blast created an additional hazard.

Officials said they doubted whether the twisted machinery would be good even for salvage. No insurance was carried on the building and its machinery other than $3,500 for fire hazard.

They are the children of Joshua Peck, 55, who told reporters he and his 22-year-old wife have been unable to provide properly for their family on their lonely 300-acre farm near Danford, Que., 40 miles northwest of here and up the Gatineau River Valley.

The youngsters were brought to Sacred Heart Hospital here during the week-end after another child, four-year-old Elmer James, was found dead in a primitive crib in the remote farm home.

Anglo-French Protest Just for Record

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.,
A.P. News Analyst

The French and British governments, in expressing disapproval of United States plans for a military pact with Franco Spain, have merely acted for the record in their own internal political affairs.

The actual situation is not one of dispute. The whole issue was threshed out and agreement reached long ago. The U.S. will make a deal with Franco if it can, and the British and French will be dissociated from the move.

British political opinion, both Conservative and Labor, is dead-set against any association with what they call Franco fascism. So are the French. It all goes back to the Spanish-civil war. Neither government would dare face its constituents on a Franco deal.

If the U.S. wishes to make an agreement for the sake of expediency, however, London and Paris will throw no monkey wrenches. Aside from avoiding political involvement, all they wanted was assurance that an American pact with Spain would not mean a decrease in American arms aid for the North Atlantic Treaty organization. The assurance was given.

The U.S. has no intention of paying any great price for Spanish co-operation. Franco recently obtained a $62,500,000 loan. No further aid is contemplated now. He is reported willing to broaden the base of his government and take other steps to make his regime more palatable to western political circles.

He can get a promise of American arms for refurbishing his army after current American obligations to Atlantic Pact countries have been met. That means in two or three years, but not before.

Vote Defeats Major Threat To Seaway

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP). — The House of Representatives public works committee today defeated 14-13 a motion that in effect would have killed legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Its action was on a motion by Representative Tom Pickett (Dem., Tex.), an opponent of the project, to table the bill.

Representative George A. Dondero (Rep., Mich.), ranking Republican on the committee and a supporter of the bill, said today's closed-door session was "far more harmonious" than two preceding ones.

FINAL VOTE

Dondero told reporters a final vote on the bill could develop at another meeting of the committee tomorrow.

Some members of the committee were not inclined to view the defeat of the tabling motion as a positive sign the committee will approve the legislation.

"I'm sure," one representative told reporters, "that some opponents of the bill voted against tabling."

"They apparently want to see the issue decided on its merits," Dondero said that at the outset of today's sessions he appealed to the members not to let their patience grow thin or indulge in personalities.

Singer Arrests Salesman

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP). — Josephine Baker, Negro singer, made a citizen's arrest today of a Texas salesman she accused of making a disparaging remark about her race.

Miss Baker, who signed the arrest report herself, said she and two friends were sitting in the grill of a hotel when a man at the next table said "I won't stay in the same room with niggers."

She called police, who said she would have to make the arrest herself, since they did not hear the remark. She did, with police standing by.

Widow Refuses Insurance Fee, Says Hospital Killed Husband

PRINCETON, B.C., July 17 (CP). — A Princeton widow said here Monday she refused to pay hospital insurance because "the hospital killed my husband."

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith appeared in court on a charge of failing to register under the Hospital Insurance Act.

The case was heard by Magistrate Charles Nichols, B.C. government agent and chairman of the board of Princeton General Hospital.

"I will not submit to this law," Mrs. Smith told the court. "I will go to jail first. I will fight it as long as it lasts. When I can fight no more I will leave the country."

An offer by Magistrate Nichols to suspend sentence drew another refusal from Mrs. Smith to register under the act.

"If you refuse to register and vow to continue to defy the law, I cannot take a lenient view," said the magistrate.

Mrs. Smith then agreed to register, but added: "I'm planning on leaving B.C. anyway."

No fine was levied.

Editor David Taylor, who claimed the act was not valid, was fined $5 and assessed $3.50 costs on a similar charge of failing to register.

Cereals and Fruits with Milk Rich Enough to Whip

Let your family enjoy cereals, fruits and puddings more, "creamed" with Carnation Evaporated Milk. Undiluted Carnation is rich enough to whip. So "poured on" familiar foods, it makes them taste better than ever before — yet it's so economical!

Why Carnation is So Good, So Many Ways

Carnation is good, whole, cows' milk, evaporated to double richness in all milk's food values. Homogenized and heat refined, for creamy smoothness, rich flavor. The vitamin D is increased to help children build normal bones and teeth.

Use it like cream. Undiluted Carnation is wonderful on cereals and fruits, in coffee, in cream recipes, for whipping. For cooking or drinking. Restore the water by mixing half Carnation, half water, to equal good whole milk.

A Fumigated Spain?

UNITED STATES foreign policy, in some conflict with the British over the issue, is beginning to give serious thought to a rapprochement with Franco's Spain, in return for airbases and other practical considerations of course. For his part, the generalissimo has long been casting sheep's eyes to the west, if not also at the practical benefits of the Marshall plan; with pledges of a reconstituted cabinet, a more liberal rule, if not a completely whitewashed dictatorship to suit. It will, nevertheless, take a good deal of whitewash to turn Franco and Franco's Spain into even the semblance of a democracy. This little dime-store dictator who aped Hitler and Mussolini ("The Jackal" of Churchillian scorn) while they were living and indeed long after they were dead, should only be "accepted" now on studied probation with that blotched record held very clearly in mind. Weather-vanes have a habit of shifting their sails to the direction of the prevailing wind.

Keeping Politics Out

TWO special committees of the British Columbia Legislature are getting ready to hold public hearings on matters which affect the lives of almost all residents of the province. These are the committee set up to investigate the administration and actuarial position of the hospital insurance service, and the group selected to review the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act. Their findings and recommendations are likely to determine in large measure what amendments, if any, will be submitted to the legislature next year, and it is desirable that their submissions should be entirely impartial.

In this respect it is encouraging to note that the chairman of each committee has made it clear in advance that any possible attempts to use the hearings for political advantage will not be countenanced. Mr. Sydney Smith, heading the hospital insurance committee, said some time ago that his committee was interested only in improving the scheme, and would not yield to political influence. In this the C.C.F. leader, Mr. Harold Winch, concurred.

More recently the chairman of the committee on the I.C.A. Act, Mr. Arthur Ash, stated with reference to a brief reportedly being prepared by the Labor Progressive Party that his group would pay no attention to it or any other political party. That was a proper attitude to adopt towards the I.C.A., which has displayed no interest in industrial relations other than to disrupt, but it would be an equally correct one to take if organizations of Liberal, Progressive Conservative, C.C.F., or any political stripe tried to butt in.

The I.C.A. Act and the hospital scheme have been used as political footballs and for party propaganda purposes too often already. The public is more interested in laws that are fair and practical than in the labels of those who claim or disclaim their authorship, and it gives confidence in the committees to know that they are imbued with that idea.

Peaceful Victoria

AN American naval officer whose ship visited here over the week-end is reported to have commented on the quietness of the Victoria Sunday. The comment was made politely and there was no suggestion that he found the lack of gaiety unwelcome. It would be merely the difference from his own cities that arrested his attention.

It is one of the chief charms of Victoria, and of most Canadian cities, that on the Sabbath the tempo of life slows and much of the excitement of weekdays is laid aside. Elsewhere on this continent Sunday too often is practically as every other day, with the noise and bustle as strident as ever. There is nothing to distinguish one day from another, no period in which people may pause and take thought, or rest quietly from the cares of a workaday world, apart altogether from the sanctions attached to Christian observance.

Some individuals find this state of affairs dull, and there have been attempts made to open up the Sunday in Victoria, as the phrase goes. True enough some such suggestions have much to commend them, and it is possible for a Sabbath to be so restricted as to weary the spirit rather than refresh it. Nevertheless it is to be hoped Victoria will always present the kind of contrast that makes visitors accustomed to harsher sounds note its quietude with interest.

Ill Health Defeats a V.C.

ONE regrets to hear that Lieut.-Col. John Mahoney has been forced to give up the battalion assigned to him in the European brigade, and to learn that at the age of 37 ill health prevents this Victoria Cross winner assuming the more active military role he desired. A custom introduced by the Canadian Army during the war caused the withdrawal of holders of this decoration from combat service, and in the postwar period Colonel Mahoney was engaged as a public relations officer until his infantry appointment a month ago.

It was well known that the British Columbia officer seized the opportunity of returning to his old love with enthusiasm, and undoubtedly his withdrawal from the brigade will be a big disappointment to him. Without prejudice to the capable officer who will take his place it may be said the brigade will also feel his absence keenly. A V.C. winner is always an inspiration to the men he commands. One trusts, however, that his health permits Colonel Mahoney to resume his army career after convalescence, if not in the active role he would have liked then in some other capacity. The army can do with young men who have proved themselves outstandingly in action.

HISTORY AND NOAH

Sir,—I wonder who originated the idea that history always repeats itself?

A single cruiser of today could stand out of range and sink Nelson's fleet, ship by ship; a single armored division could destroy Napoleon's armies, one by one, and Pontius Pilate could fly from Rome to Jerusalem. Would that be history repeating itself?

Sixty years ago Palestine was a dust-heap, a desert, as it had been for centuries; but in recent years, the Jews have been turning it into a garden, as mentioned in Ezekiel, chap. 36 ver. 35, and those same Jews have been gathered "out of all countries," as mentioned in ver. 42 of chap. 36 of Ezekiel. Is that history repeating itself?

This dispensation is now approaching its end, and it will be "as in the days of Noah."

W. STANLEY SHAW,

2 Hobart Place, London S.W. 1, England.

ESCALATOR CLAUSES

Sir,—Provincial Health Minister Turnbull and Mr. Lloyd Detwiler of the hospital insurance commission, have cautioned hospital boards against signing labor union agreements containing escalator clauses intended to compensate for increases in living costs. This seems to be a constant policy on the part of these officials, to blame labor for the racket into which the British Columbia hospital insurance scheme has developed.

Mr. Detwiler in particular makes it part of his business to address local organizations to inform them of the dubious fiction of high wages being responsible for the financial troubles of the scheme.

It is a notorious fact that wages, hours and working conditions of most hospital employees are relatively lower than those employed in other and better organized industries. This was admitted in 1949 by Hon. George Pearson, then minister of health, who suggested that the hospitals could no longer operate on a shoestring and that an upward adjustment of wages for their employees was unavoidable. The miserable increase that has been paid in no way can be blamed for the high charges being billed to some of the released patients.

People who have paid into the scheme, thinking that they were paying on a health insurance plan, are now disillusioned and are wondering if the whole scheme was not devised in the first place to get the hospitals out of the "red," rather than to provide the people with the insurance they were paying for. In any case, instructing hospitals not to sign union agreements with their employees in which escalator clauses are inserted... is outside the scope of the health department.

CLINIC CAFETERIA

Sir,—Meals at the Crease Clinic Cafeteria (which is a B.C. Government Institution at Port Coquitlam for nervous disturbances, separate and apart from Essondale), are a horror.

After walking down several flights of stairs with an empty tummy, one enters a long tunnel, suggestive of catacombs. Only the tombs are missing. Finally, after walking some distance one comes to an iron grid which, in itself, is frightening to some patients. Having passed through this, a door is unlocked and one walks up a flight of steps, then another door is unlocked and there is the cafeteria.

Here you pick up cutlery and a hideous cold brown bakelite article, divided into six shallow sections. You push it along a rack and food is flung into it, immediately becoming chilled.

Now you must make the decision as to whether you shall bolt your food and have indigestion or take your time and come away hungry, because you are not allowed sufficient time to relax and enjoy your meal. Yet have I not often read that eating hurriedly is very bad for the digestion. Surely then, this practise is especially bad for patients, many of whom already suffer from nervous indigestion....

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I WOULD not go so far as Mr. Bumble did when commenting on the law, at the moment anyway, but of a truth that was a piquant piece of news about the lad who was fined for consuming liquor in a public place, even though not a drop had passed his lips. He was guilty of intent, of course, and had he not been rudely interrupted would have swallowed the potion with pleasure. Nevertheless, he didn't swallow it, therefore didn't consume that which he was adjudged guilty of consuming.

The magistrate made light of any mundane distinction between intent and performance, a legal philosophy which is at least rather diverting. Does this mean that if a bloke "cased the joint with intent to rob, and then at the last moment halted before crossing the threshold, he could be found guilty of burglary? I hope not.

There was an article on Clement Attlee in this newspaper last Sunday, written by an Associated Press writer in London, presumably an American, which depicted him as the man who wrote the score during the war and Winston Churchill as the prima donna who gave it voice. I never thought any newspaperman could be so naive. Mr. Attlee is a sturdy fellow, all right, and his chief political rival is as prima donna as any mere male could be, but the man was never born that could make Churchill pipe to his tune.

In the latest issue of Saturday Night there is an interesting piece on Vancouver Island, written by J. K. Nesbit, well-known to Colonist Sunday magazine readers and one of the more competent newspapermen of this fair city. He would have nothing to do with it, but I notice the caption on one of the accompanying photographs describes the Island as sometimes dubbed "the California of Canada."

This sort of comparison happens so often it becomes boring. Just for a change, couldn't California be cited as the "Vancouver Island of America?"

Apologies my remarks the other day about the felicitous speech of Laurence Olivier, a note from Mrs. Wilfrid Ord, who knows whereof she speaks, puts Ralph Richardson, Claude Rains and Robert Donat alongside that thespian in the matter of superlative articulation. With some point she adds that had voice habits spread when children of the careless mix with those of the careful, and a general deterioration in speech is threatened by the ugly, nasal and strident voices heard so often over the radio and in some films. It's a fact, too, that many schoolboys come to regard such voices as natural and deem a decently modulated voice to be sissy.

I see there is great rivalry these days among the girls who meet the incoming boats with bagpipes, which brings to mind the thought that visitors stepping ashore on the traditional "bit of Old England" must wonder what's happened when they see the kilt and hear the great Highland pibroch. Personally, since Victoria is neither a bit of Old England nor a bit of Old Scotland but in fact a bit of Old Canada, I'm inclined to regard the whole business as phony.

When I saw the two sailors on Fort Street the other night I couldn't help but note their tidily waistlines. They looked as though they had been poured into their jumpers and the effect was to make them as smart as could be.

Conversely, of late I've noticed Canadian soldiers on the street in the most unimpressive uniform I ever set eyes on—an olive green drill outfit with a jacket that flares like a lady's peplum, only not one-tenth so tidy, pants like those you might wear to dig the garden, and a peaked cap similar to that worn by a locomotive fireman. How any man can feel like a soldier in such a get-up is a mystery. Dress designers at N.D.H.Q. must surely have dreamed this garb up the morning after the night before.

Implications of Korean Cease-Fire

By W. N. EWER

LONDON.—There seems no reason to doubt the genuineness of the Chinese desire for a cease fire in Korea. In fact, such a desire is not only explained but dictated by the military situation. The repulse of the second big Chinese offensive was so complete and so disastrous for them that it is quite certain that their armies and, perhaps even more important, their supply organization, are badly battered.

But at the same time it would be rash to assume that their obvious wish for a cease fire means that they have decided that there is nothing for it but to put an end finally to all hostilities. There are still certain questions that we have to ask ourselves.

Do the Chinese want a cease fire as a first step to a complete cessation of hostilities and to an attempt to secure a negotiated settlement? Or are they simply hoping to get a breathing space in which to reorganize and re-equip their battered forces, and perhaps at the same time to secure some tactical advantages which would stand them in good stead if and when they decided to resume the offensive?

This second possibility cannot be ruled out. There are some grounds which suggest that something of the kind may be in the minds of the Chinese and North Korean commanders. The Peking radio and Peking press are already taking it for granted that if there is a cease fire the demarcation line between the two forces will be along the 38th parallel. This is a question which has, of course, not yet been decided.

Now the military consequences of an armistice in which the United Nations troops would be withdrawn to south of the parallel would be very considerable. These Chinese troops perfectly well that in the past few weeks General Van Fleet has been building up a very formidable line of defense across the peninsula—a line so strong that their chances of breaking it in any new offensive are negligible. They know that while on the west this line runs well south of the parallel, on the east it runs well to the north of it. So that the result of an agreement to make the parallel the demarcation line would be that on the west the United Nations forces would come forward to occupy new, unprepared and probably undefensible positions, on the east they would have to evacuate the whole of their carefully prepared defensive line.

In fact, if the United Nations forces were to exchange their present line for one running strictly along the 38th parallel, this would change the whole tactical position vastly to the advantage of the Chinese and would greatly increase their chances of success in a new offensive if hostilities were to break out again. I do not think there is the slightest possibility that General Ridgway would agree to anything of the kind. But by pressing for such an arrangement the Chinese arouse justifiable suspicion as to their real intentions.

Looking at the military position in general, it seems to me more probable the enemy high command or rather Moscow and Peking have come to the conclusion that its wisest course would be to end the fighting altogether. They must surely have realized that there is no longer any hope of securing a decisive military victory and that any further continuation of hostilities would be far more likely to bring new crushing defeats and new devastating losses.

The lesson of the last two months must have brought the Chinese to the conclusion that they simply cannot continue the war with any hope at all of success unless the Soviet Union itself were prepared to come to their aid with massive reinforcements of trained troops and materials. And one suspected that Mao Tse Tung has been told by Stalin that the Soviet Government has not the slightest intention of doing anything of the kind.

If that is so, then we can feel fairly sure that an end of the fighting is really in sight. But even then there is need for much caution and much careful thinking. Communists may have abandoned at last all hope of achieving their aim by direct military attacks, but quite certainly they have not abandoned those aims. They are changing not their objectives but only the tactics and the methods by which they hope to achieve them. A cease fire might thus lead to an end of the conflict, but it might only mean that the conflict has been transferred from the military to the political and democratic fields.

We have to face the possibility that the real purpose of the whole manoeuvre is to exploit the strong desire of the democracies for peace, and the great reluctance which they would have to any renewal of the fighting. The Communists may well be calculating that they may be able to secure in negotiation many of the objectives which they failed to gain by fighting—which the United Nations, by successfully challenging aggression, has denied them. They may well be calculating on securing a settlement which would leave them in a military position to renew their attempt to get control of all Korea if and when a favorable opportunity seems to present itself.

The United Nations, anxious as they are for an end to the fighting and the suffering of the Korean people, will need to think very carefully about the future possibilities before deciding what price, if any, they are prepared to pay. And until we can really judge the intentions and purposes of the Chinese it would be a dangerous blunder to be over hopeful.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ONE of the hardest things in the world to give up is an old wallet or an old purse. Most women have three or four handbags, some of them still in their cardboard boxes or in the tissue paper of three and four Christmas bags, stacked away on shelves or in the back of the more seldom opened bureau drawers. Men get new wallets not only for birthday or Christmas, but as banquet gifts and mementos of conventions and meetings. These they tuck away in the back of their sock drawer.

When you look at the leather goods counters of the department stores and see the heaps and piles of women's purses of every style and description, you wonder how there can be any trade in them. Yet they go like hot cakes. When a woman buys a new dress or coat, she must have a new purse or handbag to go with it. But within a week or two, the new one is stacked with the rest; and the old familiar purse is back in hand again. By a glance you can tell how long a woman has had the new dress or coat she is wearing. If she is carrying a new handbag the outfit is less than three weeks old. If she is carrying an old and comfortable handbag, the dress or coat is probably a month old.

Men may stick to the old wallet for no other reason than the trouble involved in changing all the membership cards, identification tickets, ancient receipts and forgotten memos from the old to a new. Men are easy to understand.

But women will buy a new hat as quick as look at it, and consign the old one to worse than the junk heap, which is the dark shelf of a clothes closet, a poor place for a hat to end its days, to be sure. They will buy new shoes, regardless of the traditional comfort of old ones. Trinkets and gadgets, lipsticks and costume jewelry, compacts and mesh purses, gloves they never wear, a thousand whims a woman will indulge in; and then dump them all hocus hocus into an old, battered, familiar and beloved handbag.

"A lot of people would agree with him," the rainmaker observed mildly.

The rainmaker has had to put up with some good-natured ribbing from skeptics since he took his stand on the island. One

Saanich resident last night muttered "He'd get water quicker if he hitched that to a pump."

MOST WAITING
But there's another school—apparently in the majority—that isn't going to judge hastily.

Farm Groups To Discuss Irrigation

A limited irrigation system using water from Elk Lake will be the subject of a special joint meeting of Saanich farmers' groups early in August.

Percy Thorpe, president of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce, and Pat Hoole, president of the Farmers' Institute, have called for the meeting at the suggestion of William Kersey, manager of the South Vancouver Island Fruit Growers' Exchange.

Discussion probably will centre on the establishment of a water district with a limited system of stand-pipe irrigation serving farms.

"They laughed at radio 50 years ago—and television 10 years ago," marks the feeling here.

Earlier, cherry growers complained that rain would split cherries and ruin the crop. But most of the Blings and Lamberts have now been harvested.

QUESTIONS, QUESTIONS
Johnson is finding the barrage of questions more trouble than his rain-seeking. Despite the wide publicity given his activities he still has to explain his machine to each newcomer.

"I don't mind answering questions," he muttered finally, "but does it always have to be the same one?"

The rainmaker's detractors include people who have witnessed the fact his machine has been working at moments when rain fell in normally arid areas. They still don't believe it, they say.

TYRE TYPICAL
Typical is Regina newspaper man Robert Tyre whose "non-serious" stories made Johnson famous, according to Tyre.

The Leader-Post writer said he was just waiting for news of the downpour over the parched farmlands of Saanich to make "a customary trek to the corner to talk to the wallpaper."

Both Johnson and Tyre like to tell of the time they took the rain machine out into a farmer's field to make a news-reel of the rainmaking technique.

They started work under a bright blue, cloudless sky. One hour later a torrential downpour sent cameraman, cynical reporter and the unsurprised rainmaker scurrying for cover.

LEERY OF SPACES
Events of this nature have made Johnson leery of working the machine in the wide open spaces.

He likes to set the rain machine on a window-sill—facing west.

"Then when it rains, you're under cover," he remarks reasonably.

Despite his obvious sincerity, and with all the evidence in, at midnight the Saanich area had chalked up 38 almost completely rainless days in a row.

Higher meat prices, coupled with buyer resistance, have caused several city butcher shops here to be put up for sale and forced some Vancouver shops to close, it was reported yesterday.

A Vancouver newspaper estimated yesterday that close to 30 shops have closed.

Prospectors' Rescue Reunites Close Trio

QUEBEC, July 17 (CP)—The rescue of two starving prospectors from the barren lands of northeastern Quebec has kept intact a trio bound together by the experiences of 15 years of Canadian frontier life and war.

The three men are the prospecting Walsh brothers—Jimmy, 40, and Mike, 32, and their brother, Pearson, 51, who has put aside an adventurer's prowling to work among the blind at Hamilton, Ont.

The Walsh brothers, two of Canada's best prospectors, and Pearson were separated when Jimmy and Mike set out in April to search for valuable minerals in uninhabitable country on the southern fringe of Ungava.

In their past association there have been many partings and reunions. But all three agreed today that their latest reunion was a close shave.

The Walsh brothers, looking like weatherbeaten ghosts, stepped from a plane that brought them 350 miles up the St. Lawrence.

They had just finished a desperate trek through unexplored country north of Sept Iles where they were found last Friday, after having been missing more than three weeks.

On hand to greet them at 28-Mile Camp, where a rescuers' canoe delivered them after an 80-mile ride down the turbulent Moisie River, was Jamie Pearson.

Pearson had given up his work as superintendent of an occupational shop for the blind to go to Sept Iles and spur what seemed a hopeless search for his friends.

The greeting exchanged between Pearson and the Walsh brothers, scarcely able to walk after their ordeal, was:

"What the heck are you doing here?"

PLAYS NURSEMAID

Pearson, a jovial veteran of the two world wars and the Spanish war, was with the Walsh brothers when they arrived here on their way to Toronto.

He made arrangements for their flight tonight from Quebec while the prospectors, still weak from their 24-day trek, called at the Quebec mines department to report whatever they found.

Everyone connected with their prospecting trip that started April 20 and was due to finish early in June—when the lake ice thawed out and they could be picked up by plane—said the Walsh brothers have made an important find.

The brothers said they regarded their rescue as miraculous.

Uncle Wiggily Story --

By Howard Garls

MORE DANGER

Perched safely on a big, broad, flat stump in the middle of Mud Turtle Island in Frog Pond, Buster and Bunty looked at the snapping turtle. This creature, much larger than any mud turtle, had big jaws that, as Buster had told Bunty, could bite in two pieces the handle of a broom.

"Do you think the snapping turtle can get us, Buster?" asked Bunty in a whisper.

"No. He can't climb up this stump. We are safe," answered the Rabbit Scout.

"And he can't get our basket of lunch, either, can he, Buster?" "No, Bunty, he can't. I pulled up the lunch basket with this stick that has a curved hook on the end."

"But he's looking at us, Buster."

"Let him look," advised Buster as the turtle slowly crawled on the ground around the bottom of the stump. "Looks can't hurt us, Bunty."

"And he is hissing at us, Buster."

"Let him hiss," answered Buster. "All turtles hiss."

"Do they hiss because they are mad?" Bunty wanted to know.

"I guess they do, Bunty. Look, he's smelling around the place where the lunchbasket was on the ground. Maybe he's mad because we pulled the lunch up on the stump here with us, Bunty."

"Maybe he is, Buster. Oh, he's hissing very loud now."

"That's just what the snapping turtle was doing as he crawled around and around the stump and looked up at the little rabbit children whom he could not reach."

"Oh, Buster, do you know what you can do?" asked Bunty.

"No. What?" "Look, Buster. You have, up here on the stump, a lot of thick, heavy sticks, haven't you?"

"Sure, Bunty. I have. I was going to make a fire with them. And then I would put some wet leaves on the fire."

"Why would you do that, Buster?" asked Bunty as she looked over the edge of the safe stump down at the snapping turtle who was still crawling around and hissing. "Why put wet leaves on the fire, Buster?"

"To make a lot of smoke, Bunty. And when daddy and Boson, on the raft, see the smoke signal, they will know we are here on Mud Turtle Island and they will come and get us."

"Oh, how smart you are, Buster."

"I am a Rabbit Scout," said the rabbit modestly. "But now I can't get down to make a fire on account of the snapping turtle. But what did you want me to do with these long, thick sticks, Bunty?"

"Why don't you reach them down, Buster, over the edge of the stump and let the snapping turtle bite them in two—like as

Suppression of Anger, Resentment Believed Cause of Intestinal Havoc

CHICAGO, July 17 (INS).—

The smile that masks hatred and the angelic look that hides resentment may carry a high price tag on health, a study by two New York doctors shows.

Their report presented new evidence that suppressed feelings—and a need always to be nice to everyone despite the stresses of daily life—are a frequent cause of chronic ulcerative colitis.

The disease—marked by painful lesions of the intestine, internal bleeding and weight loss—is one of medicine's toughest problems. There is no known specific remedy and recoveries, at best, have averaged 40 per cent.

HIGHER RATIO

But treatment by a psychoanalyst who encouraged patients to express their anger yielded 56-per-cent cures and another 12 per cent who showed improvement.

Dr. William J. Grace and Dr. Harold G. Wolff described 19 of these "smiling sufferers."

All had personality characteristics in common: An inability to express normal feelings of resentment, a tendency to be inwardly hostile but outwardly sweet, secretly anxious but superficially calm.

Behind this pattern, the doctors reasoned, lay feelings of dependence—so strong a need to lean on someone that the patient dared not risk criticism by venting anger. One patient summed it up by saying "people won't like me if I'm mean."

The doctors said: "The greatest benefit to the patient was a constructive physician-patient relationship. The patient was encouraged to express with a free show of feelings the major complaints and difficulties in his life situation."

A 36-year-old nurse who resented her husband's attachment to his parents—but remained smiling because she feared losing him—was cured when she learned to accept his faults.

Occasionally, the doctors added, just the chance to blow off steam to the physician resulted in marked improvement.

Dollar Dump In Hotel Pool Delights Reno

RENO, July 17 (INS).—Just for a gag—and for the sake of publicity—singer Dennis Day was paid off in a wheelbarrow full of silver dollars today for his appearances at Reno's Riverside Hotel.

But Day added an unscheduled bit to the program by dumping the dollars, 3,000 of them, into the hotel swimming pool amid a bevy of bathing beauties.

Lou Wertheimer, who owns a piece of the Riverside Casino with his brother Mort and Arthur Allen, hotel managing director, were properly horrified.

Wertheimer yelled: "What do you think you're doing, fooling with hay?"

The singer walked away as Wertheimer tried to recover the dollars from the bathing beauties and other swimmers who splashed into the pool to reap the silver harvest.

Cameras, society and divorce colony members who witnessed the proceedings were delighted with Day's performance.

"No, Buster, we can't get down yet," whispered Bunty. "I think more danger is coming—I hear the bushes rustling again."

If any danger is coming, I will tell you about it tomorrow if the butter will please stop tickling the ear of corn when it wants to listen to the radio.

Latin Trio Bolsters Sox

Three foreign reasons for success of amazing Chicago White Sox in torrid American League pennant race take time out to brush up on their English. At left is third baseman Orestes Minoso, candidate for rookie award, who hails from Havana, Cuba; centre is all-star shortstop Chico Carrasquel from Caracas, Venezuela; and right, pitcher Luis Aloma, whose home town is Havana. Trio does all right in native Spanish but has bit of difficulty with English. — (A.P. wirephoto.)

The torrid American League pennant race waxes even hotter today with only 1½ games separating the leading Boston Red Sox and the fourth-place Cleveland Indians.

The Sox had their lead trimmed to 2 percentage points last night when they dropped an 8½ decision to Bob Feller and the Indians while the Chicago White Sox climbed into a virtual tie with a 4.3, 10-inning verdict over the third-place New York Yankees.

Today it will be Maurice McDermott (5-5) for the Red Sox against Cleveland's Bob Lemon (9-8) and Ed Lopat (11-5) for the Yankees against Chicago's Billy Pierce (9-6). Victories for the Indians and Yankees today would leave only 5 percentage points separating the four top clubs.

Feller posted his 13th victory as the Indians downed the Red Sox for the eighth time in 13 games. He survived a four-run Boston rally in the ninth, highlighted by a three-run homer by rookie Charles Maxwell in a pinch-hitting role. Lou Boudreau also tagged him for a homer in the sixth.

Boudreau's error enabled the Red Sox to score five unearned runs in the third.

Yankee strategy backfired in the 10th after Eddie Stawicki had doubled with one out. Orestes Minoso was purposely passed but Eddie Robinson singled to drive in Stewart with the winning run.

Saul Rogovin went the route for the Chisox, killing a Yankee threat in the ninth by leaving two runners stranded after the New Yorkers had tied it 3-3.

game was a scoreless duel between Rogovin and (no-hit) Allie Reynolds until Hank Bauer hit a two-run homer in the seventh. The Sox went ahead with three runs in the eighth.

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers dropped their fifth game in six starts when they bowed 4-3 to Pittsburgh, as Howie Pollet posted his 10th victory.

The Dodgers failed to lose ground, however, as the second-place New York Giants and third-place St. Louis Cardinals also lost. Cal McLish gained his first National League victory by hurling the Chicago Cubs to a 7-4 triumph over the Giants. Boston Braves blanked the Cards 5-0 as Max Surkont scattered nine hits.

Net Meet For Juniors Next Week

The 1951 Lower Vancouver Island Junior Centre tennis tournament will be played on the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club's hard courts, July 26, 27 and 28.

The tournament is divided into two classes, boys and girls under 15 and boys and girls under 18. At present only singles will be played but if enough entries are received boys' and girls' doubles will also be staged.

ADVANCE TO VANCOUVER

Sponsored by the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association, these tournaments are played at designated centres throughout the province. Winners in the under-18 age groups are given free transportation to a provincial tournament to be held in Vancouver in August.

This plan is part of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association's drive to promote junior tennis throughout Canada. Medals will be awarded by the association to winners in all divisions.

The tournament is open to all juniors in the lower Vancouver Island area and entries should be mailed or phoned to the secretary of the tennis club before July 24.

Race Probers May Expose Jockey Ring

PAWBUCKET, B.I., July 17 (INS).—The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, continuing its probe at Narragansett Park, today was believed on the verge of cracking a jockey ring that operated with gambling syndicates and gangster ties.

The bureau, headed by former FBI man Spencer Drayton, believes the jockey ring is operating on most of the country's large tracks, especially in New England, New York and Florida.

Signed confessions by at least two nationally known jockeys were reported in the hands of probers. The confessions may be the basis for exposure and prosecution of the alleged ring whose members have been suspected of pulling horses for the bookie syndicate. They also have been suspected of participating in fixed races which the syndicate used to put independent bookmakers out of business.

Yankee Pitchers Ride In Funeral Wagon

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP).—Chicago White Sox tonight had a big black Cadillac, supplied by a funeral home, to service New York Yankee pitchers in the distant centre-field bull pen.

The gag developed after the Yankees previously declined to use the bull-pen station wagon available to haul in relief pitchers.

In the last of the ninth, when the Yankees had to replace Allie Reynolds, reliever Stubby Overmire walked in from the bull-pen. The big black limousine, however, slowly toured the field at the same time. On its rear was a sign: "Yankee Pitchers."

night by whipping Nanaimo Native Sons, 25-11, at Vancouver.

It was the younger members of the club which sparked Combines last night. Bert Tichenhurst netted six goals and one assist and Elmer Buchanan bagged three goals and four helpers. Jimmy Swanson had three goals and two assists and Harry Buchanan two goals and three assists.

Nanaimo led 2-0 early in the game, but Combines took a 3-2 lead at the quarter, stretching it to 14-7 at the half, and 20-9 at three-quarters.

Combines moved within two points of the second-place New Westminster Commandos last night.

Big Golf Guns At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP).—Golf's big names followed the common men into Milwaukee today to battle for the richest pot in this summer's Professional Golfers' Association trail.

The pros seek a share of the $20,000 posted for the Blue-Ribbon Open at North Hills Country Club. The field includes about 100 of the United States' top play-for-pay golfers—Sammy Snead, Jim Ferrier, Marty Furgol and the rest.

The field, upward of 150, will tee off Thursday and Friday for two 18-hole medal-play rounds. Only the 60 lowest scorers will continue Saturday and Sunday to wind up the 72-hole test.

An overthrow at first base in the 11th inning enabled Esquimalt Merchants to push over the winning run for a 9-8 triumph over Island Fuel in a Senior "C" Men's Softball League game last night.

Wenatchee Chiefs are finding out that whatever Victoria does on the road is no indication of what it will do once it gets back into the confines of Royal Athletic Park.

Athletics continued their supremacy over the Chiefs in Victoria by downing them 3-1 last night. The win gives them a 5-1 edge over the Chiefs at home and an 8-5 margin for the season.

It was Victoria's second win in as many nights over the Wenatchee club and it gives them a 2-0 lead in the current four-game series. The pair of victories are a soothing salve for the three defeats administered by the Chiefs at Wenatchee last week.

STRIKES OUT SIX

Jim Hedgecock set the Chiefs down with six hits (even his record at nine wins and nine defeats. He struck out six, did not issue a walk, but hit two batters. In addition, he naved the Victoria attack with a double and single in four trips.

Mike Kershwin was the unfortunate Wenatchee hurler. He pitched sound ball but was the victim of fielding by his teammates. He was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

An error by shortstop Bud Hjelmaas on Don Pries' grounder after two were out allowed Victoria to score the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the ninth.

Bill Osborn is scheduled to hurl for the Athletics while Walt Raimond is the likely choice for Wenatchee.

Tacoma Edges Caps 7-5

Vancouver Capitanos had their Western International League lead pared to half a game last night when they dropped an 11-inning 7-5 decision to Tacoma while the runner-up Spokane Indians downed Yakima 6-2 in 14 innings.

Tacoma bobbled three times in the second inning to give Vancouver a 4-0 lead but the Caps returned the favor in the 11th after the Tigers had evened the count with a three-run rally in the ninth.

Jim Monroe dropped Jose Rache's fly in the 11th. Merv Dubbers sacrificed and Gerry Clark, John Kovenz and Mike Catron singled to drive in two runs.

BLANKED 12 INNINGS

Spokane took a 2-0 lead in the first inning at Yakima but were blanked for 12 successive innings by Ted Savarese before breaking through in the 13th. Ed Murphy was hit by a pitched ball. Ed Vanni and Steve Messner singled and Ken Richardson wound it up with a triple.

Salmon blanked Tri-City Braves 4-0 to replace Wenatchee in third place.

Canadian Pair Gain Ground In Canoe Race

AITKIN, Minn., July 17 (EP).—In a spurt from Palisades, Minn., yesterday the Flin Flon, Man. team of Roy Jackson and Oris Sage moved up to ninth position in the fourth lap of the 450-mile Mississippi canoe derby, which started last Friday at Bemidji.

Jackson and Sage, lone Canadian team left in the derby, gained 28 minutes, 30 seconds to go ahead of August Schueman and Dale Hennek of North Mankato, Minn., and another eight minutes, 21 seconds to overtake and pass Wayne and Milo Carlson of Robbinsdale, Minn.

The only other Canadian team entered in the paddling classic—Victor Clague and William Williamson of Toronto—dropped out Sunday when they had no hope of catching the leaders. They were then in 14th position.

The Deer River, Minn., and Dick Peck continued to lead the pack with an elapsed time of 30 hours, 24 minutes. The Canadian boys clocked in yesterday at 36 hours, eight minutes.

Sox Catcher Sidelined By Fracture

CHICAGO, July 17 (INS).—Catcher Gus Niarhos will be lost to the Chicago White Sox for three weeks because of a fractured wrist, suffered in yesterday's 9-5 victory over Philadelphia.

X-ray photos today showed the break, which occurred when Niarhos was hit by a foul tip. Phil Masi and Joe Erazut are the only other catchers on the Sox roster.

To bolster the receiving corps, the Sox recalled Sam Hairston, 28-year-old catcher from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League and placed Niarhos on the disabled list for 30 days.

Hairston, who is expected to fly to Chicago in time for tomorrow's game against the Yankees, batted .261 for Sacramento in 65 games this season.

Butler's Aces increased their lead in the Senior "A"-Men's Softball League to five points by tripping Chinese Students 5-3 at Upper Central last night. The loss prevented the Students from moving back into a second-place tie with Pitzer & Vex.

As usual, it was John Furmston on the mound for the Aces. Big John went the distance, although he tired in the late innings, to rack up his sixth straight win. He now has a nine-win, two-loss record. Furmston gave up seven hits, including a triple by Jimmy John in the first inning, struck out five and walked eight, five in the last three innings.

Aces scored an insurance run in the top of the ninth and then retired the Chinese without further damage in the bottom of the inning.

Charles McKay, a former Butler player, was Students' mound choice. He also went the distance, giving up 12 hits, striking out one and walking one.

Aces took a 4-1 lead during the first four innings but it was all they could do to hold it. Students scored two runs in the seventh, had a runner thrown out at the plate and left two more stranded. They loaded the bags again in the eighth but could not push the tying run across.

Patterson Refuses to Comment On W.I.L.-Prairie Prospects

Reg Patterson, business manager of Victoria Athletics, last night refused comment on the latest report that Calgary and Edmonton will be in the Western International League next year.

"That is a matter to be taken up by league directors next winter," he said, "but I have always been in favor of the plan."

SAYS-TACOMA FOR SALE

The latest report arose from a statement at Vancouver yesterday by Frank Gillihan, business manager of Tacoma Tigers, that the Tacoma team is for sale at $25,000 and that he hoped to find a buyer either in Edmonton or Calgary.

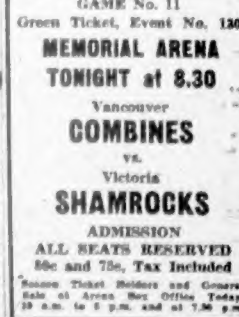

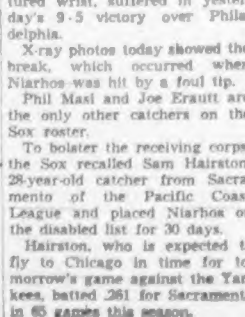

Gillihan added that he was authorized to sell the Salem franchise also and that prospects were good for selling one club in each Alberta city. He said the merger of the Pacific Coast Hockey League and the Western Canada Hockey League was a big factor in his effort to sell the franchises in Alberta.

CALL REPORT ABSURD

Donald Young and other directors of the Salem club called the report absurd. They said there hasn't even been a meeting of the 832 stockholders—all local fans who bought the team from Portland's Coast League Beavers.

Gus Bell of Pittsburgh dives head first into home plate attempting to score from first in game against Brooklyn yesterday but is tagged out by catcher Roy Campanella. Umpire is Bill Stewart. Pirates rallied to take 4-3 decision and hand Dodgers fifth loss in six games. — (A.P. wirephoto.)

The Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 17 (INS).—If Jersey Joe Walcott had the least bit of gambling instinct in his make-up he would have been a champion long ago.

But the old man never has taken a chance in his life. He is inherently too cautious. However, unlike most of Joe Louis' opponents, his caution never has stemmed from fear.

He simply is not galled to open up, throw caution to the winds, and take a gamble on being knocked out himself when he has a chance to win with a little daring.

That is why we must string along with Ezzard Charles to beat him for the third time when they meet for the title in Pittsburgh tomorrow night.

Caution is all right but there is a time and place for it. Charles himself is inclined to be cautious but he showed his willingness to gamble when he stepped out and took the play away from Joe Louis.

Gene Tunney, too, was cautious, but he picked the right times to be wary and the right times to take a chance.

For instance, Gene threw caution aside when he walked right out and stunned Jack Dempsey with a daring right hand in their first title bout. That punch was the one that really led to Gene's victory.

But Gene showed sensible caution when, after he was floored for the famous long count in Chicago, he got up and back-pedaled away from Dempsey until he had cleared.

Many still believe that Walcott actually beat Louis in their first fight. We have an idea that Louis also believed he had lost. Be that as it may, Walcott could have won beyond all doubt if he had been willing to gamble a little and force his advantage when he had it.

But not good old Jersey Joe. He never has taken a gamble. He is a sure-thing player all the way.

Now he is getting his fifth crack at the heavyweight title and that's more than any other fighter ever got.

He has a punch, he is smart, he has a good defense, but he also has that overgrown bump of caution which probably will do as much as Charles' fists to beat him.

Charles is probably the most underrated champion we ever had. We don't know what his detractors expect him to do. He has licked everybody in sight. He has defended his title eight times in the short time he has had it. What else can you ask of him?

He shapes up very well with some of our former champions who were more highly regarded.

For instance, we think Charles could have beaten Primo Carnera with ease. We also think he could have taken the wild-swinging Max Baer or the slow-footed Jim Braddock.

If Charles wins as he should tomorrow, he is slated to meet Joe Louis in September.

But we are not so sure that he will meet Louis before next year because of the taxes involved.

Charles has punched himself into the higher income-tax brackets and it may be that another fight this year would be for the benefit of Uncle Sam and not for Ezzard Charles.

Chandler Told Plans to Form Players' Union

PHILADELPHIA, July 17 (AP).—A. B. (Happy) Chandler, former commissioner of baseball, was told today of plans to organize a major league players' union and to draft Chandler as their spokesman.

Happy's only comment: "I'm listening, that's all. Then I'm going home to fish."

H. I. Miranda of Lexington, Ky., discussed the plans of the National Baseball Players' Organization which he has founded. He is now on a tour of the major league cities.

"I feel that club owners are trying to turn the commissioner into a figurehead," he said.

"If there is to be an owner organization, then to make a balance there should be a player organization with a spokesman of stature equal to that of the owners' commissioner."

Miranda is circulating ballots among American and National League baseball players. He is asking them to vote on whether they wish to "attempt to draft" Chandler to serve as baseball players' commissioner.

Macken, Rochon, Main Named Davis Cup Team

MONTREAL, July 17 (CP).—Two Montrealers—Brendan Macken and Henri Rochon—and a Vancouver tennis player, Lorne Main, were named today to represent Canada in Davis Cup play against Cuba.

Dr. Georges Leclerc, chairman of the Davis Cup selection committee of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, announced the names.

The trio will face Cuba's entry on the courts of the Mount Royal Tennis Club in Montreal August 3 to August 5.

The selection committee nominated H. Gordon MacNeil of Montreal as non-playing captain of the team.

The committee has yet to decide whether a fourth player will be named for the matches against Cuba.

Brendan Macken is the present Canadian champion and No. 1 ranking tennis player in this country. He has played on all Canadian Davis Cup teams since 1946.

Rochon, No. 2 ranking player, has also played on the same teams. Main, with No. 3 ranking, has played on the last two teams.

The three returned today from Europe. They participated in the Wimbledon matches and other tournaments in the United Kingdom and won against French Davis Cup team members in an exhibition match in Paris.

Macken said: "We're all ship-shape.

"We no longer fear the big names in tennis because we have met most of them and feel we can give any of them a good game."

club along the direction line for about a foot before you start up and around.

Notice the dotted lines of the hands and shaft and that at high position the wrists have not yet started to cork. The hands should not reach the fully cocked position until the hands have reached the top as pictured.

Notice that both hands are under the shaft, the left arm is raised straight and the right elbow under the shaft and close to the side. Our player has swung a bit beyond horizontal at the top of this backswing, which is O.K. for a good golfer. The beginner will get better results if he doesn't swing below horizontal.

Our player has completed his hip and shoulder pivot so that his back is toward the hole. His head will remain fixed in the address position until he has swung down and started his follow-through. Then, and only then, will his head turn to watch the ball.

Vessel Latest in Long Line

A link with history is provided by freighter Asuncion de Larrinaga now loading lumber at Ogden Point. Vessel is latest addition to fleet of Larrinaga family, which started operations before Spanish-American war of 1898, and moved to England to avoid capture of its ships by Americans.

Freighter Direct Link With Old Days at Sea

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

A freighter with a romantic link with sea adventure in the days of the Spanish-American war of 1898 is now loading island lumber at Ogden Point docks.

The British-owned Asuncion de Larrinaga, berthed here, and her sister ship Ramon de Larrinaga, are in direct line of descent from a large Spanish fleet which sailed between Spain, the gulf ports and Cuba before the turn of the century. They were owned by the Larrinaga family of Bilbao. The entire business, threatened when Spanish merchant ships became valuable prizes of war for the Americans, was moved to Liverpool. British registry was obtained for the vessels and they went out in safety under the British flag.

Although the Larrinaga family has been British for the past two generations, its Spanish connection has been retained in the names of the ships. Every ship in the fleet has been named after some member of the family.

There were 18 ships in the company fleet at the start of the Second World War, and three at the end.

FLOATING U.S.

Today the Asuncion de Larrinaga can be regarded as almost a United Nations afloat. Among her crew of 38 officers and men are: B. Ali, from Malaya; Francisco Calo, from Spain; Abraham Shawa, from Egypt; Ali Abdullah, East Africa; Michael de Silver, Ceylon; Joseph Paul, West Africa; Roy Shwe, Burma; Dermot Jeffers, Ireland; John Watson, Scotland; and a number from England. Capt. Richard Wilson hails from Liverpool. Second engineer Peter von Zon's home is in Holland.

HIGH OPINION

George Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner, would have beamed from ear to ear yesterday if he could have heard what the men of the Asuncion de Larrinaga had to say about Victoria, their 22nd port of call.

"Most of us agree this is the finest city we've visited so far," said fourth engineer John Watson. Others described Victoria as the cleanest and tidiest port they had ever seen.

Capt. Wilson and another officer spent several hours Monday evening "just walking around and admiring the homes and gardens."

Edward Allard completed his second crossing of the Atlantic yesterday in a 34-foot yawl. He did it alone, except for the Car Subsidy Discussed, Paper Says

DETROIT, July 17 (CP)—The Detroit Times says today in an Ottawa dated story that the Canadian government is preparing to announce a subsidy for automobile manufacturers which will reduce down payments for new car purchasers.

The subsidy plan now under discussion by the cabinet, the story says, will indirectly reduce the present 25 per cent tax on new cars and is expected to break the jam in new car sales which has clogged new and used car lots to capacity throughout Canada.

The present credit restriction requires a 50 per cent down payment on car sales with the balance to be paid over a 12-month period.

At Ottawa, Finance Minister D. C. Abbott commented tersely: "That's news to me."

"Miss Maryanne Rose?" asked, and I was gawped in pathos and awe before a bevy of taffeta in the air and I was aware of being the sacred altar with great upstart. Her skirt was lifted and were pink and I captured a faint, quiet of pink roses and sweet hair.

Beauty and You

By Patricia Lindsay

COOL DURING SUMMER

How to keep cool, look serene and keep active during the hot months is a feminine problem.

We begin, of course, with a warm soap shower followed by a cool water rinse.

Then from the toolbox comes your tray of beauty aids: chilled Cologne and skin lotion.

While in the bathroom proceed to part on base so you may see without a hot glare how and where to apply.

After you have washed your face with a change of cool water and your hands, apply your skin lotion.

Then, if you are not going to the beach, apply your skin lotion.

Then, if you are not going to the beach, apply your skin lotion.

Russia, West Can Still Be Friends,
Latest Soviet Publication Declares

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP).—Western diplomats here are giving their closest attention to a new Soviet English-language publication, "News" and its theme that peaceful relations between Russia and the United States and Britain are possible regardless of political differences.

Westerners were quick to point out the sharp difference between such sentiments and the address of top Communist ideological expert, Peter N. Pospelov, last January.

Pospelov quoted extensively from the writings of Nikolai Lenin to show Russia long had been a target of American "imperialism."

SPOKANE, July 17 (CP).—Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver will be a member of the Northwest amateur golf team which was ruled slight favorite today to beat California's best in the Morse Cup tournament that opens here Saturday.

The other members are Mawhinney, Harry Givan, Seattle; Jack Westland, Everett, Wash.; Ray Weston, Spokane; Bill Schaffer, Kelso, Wash.; Bob Atkinson, Portland, Ore.; Dick Yost, Corvallis, Ore. The alternates are Erv Papant, Seattle; Ed Draper, Seattle; and Gene May, Spokane.

Skillings Urges Approval Of Medicals for Firemen

Every effort should be made to have city firemen agree to have annual medical examinations, Ald. Waldo Skillings said at a city council meeting yesterday.

He thought it was in the interest of both public and firemen that they should have check-ups. Ald. Skillings made the remarks after council received a letter from the firefighters' union stating that the proposal, made by Acting Mayor Frank Mulliner's fire wardens, will be considered.

Labor Leaders See End Of Escalator Pay Clause

Use of the cost-of-living bonus clause in future contracts seems doubtful, according to Victoria labor spokesmen.

Of unionists questioned, none was certain the clause was giving the desired result, that of keeping up with purchasing costs.

Unions with the clause based on the government index were unable to say definitely it would continue.

The basis applied most often, that of a one-cent hourly increase for each 1.3-point index rise, was becoming insufficient for continued rising costs, it was found.

SOME SPEAKERS felt that a two-cent hourly increase per 1.3-point rise could possibly be adopted.

"At best the cost-of-living clause keeps up with costs but doesn't better the standard of

of a $7,730, 750-gallon "gully-emptier" to be used for emptying drains below street level.

CUT CROSSINGS
Ald. Skillings said his transportation committee is insisting

"We want to curtail as far as possible needless sidewalk crossings," he said.

The last application received was for a 20-foot crossing, but the committee allowed only 14 feet.

The city's streets and traffic by-law, consolidated by city solicitor A. J. Patton, will be presented to the next council meeting.

South expected a little more in his partner's hand after the two-spade response (which was a questionable bid) and when North showed an ace in answering the Blackwood convention, South decided to go all out for the slam.

West opened the singleton club. South won and cashed the A-K of trumps. He then cashed his spades, to unblock the suit, after which he forced West on lead by laying down the heart jack. (South had no fear that West

Girl Killed By Lightning

A nine-year-old Penitence girl was killed instantly by a bolt of lightning late yesterday afternoon.

Francis Frye was struck by lightning as she was carrying an armload of wood into her home. She was under a large pine tree at the time.

The freak flash storm, which lasted approximately 10 minutes, was followed by heavy rain.

Prepare Drive To Wipe Out Fire at Sooke

As many new men as possible will be used today in an attempt to surround and eliminate the whole Sooke Lake forest fire finally, rangers said last night.

About 260 men were on the job yesterday and more will be used today, it was reported.

Wind caused a flare-up yesterday, but the fire was controlled immediately, rangers said.

East, west and south sides of the blaze are hemmed in by fire guards and only a small distance remains on the north side, they added.

Meanwhile, a few permits have been issued for resumption of logging on the island's west and north coasts.

Visitor Urges Victoria Bar Americanism

Back "surveying" land he first saw as a Dominion government land surveyor is William Weld of Ottawa.

And the land doesn't look as formidable as it did in 1906. Some of the mountains then were just enemies to be conquered, he said.

Mr. Weld is visiting Victoria and other parts of British Columbia during a prolonged holiday with his wife. He left the surveyor's branch of the government and became director of Loans and Soldiers' Settlement Board in 1918, a post he held for 13 years until retirement.

DELIGHTFUL TEMPO
Victoria's leisurely pace is a delight and should be preserved from "Americanism," hustle and bustle, he said.

"It adds years to a man's life," he said.

Mr. Weld fondly referred to the province as a young man's opportunity, if he is willing to work. B.C.'s growth was enormous, he said.

"When I was first at Hope, the population was 23—with everybody at home. Now it is 2,500," he said.

Lion's Gate Bridge at Vancouver was an instrument of vision that opened the North Shore, in his opinion, and New Westminster also has grown tremendously.

He admitted he was there last week viewing the fishing fleets and for a seafood dinner.

BLACKBURN, Lancashire, England (CP)—Herbert Smith, 28, won a cake-baking contest against 300 competitors—all women. Now he is training for a fish-cooking contest.

New Fire Truck to Be Shipped Out

Central Saanich will take delivery of its new fire truck in Victoria, paying the approximate $400 freight costs, council decided last night.

Reeve Sydney Pickles estimated only about $100 would be saved by driving it from Ontario.

Final details for acquisition of the new fire truck were settled in 20 minutes, the shortest council meeting on record.

In that time, however, the meeting became heated as the question was once again raised as to whether the truck should have been ordered in the first place.

Reeve Pickles asserted he had been against the purchase since the question was first mentioned.
